

FACTORS OF SUSTAINABILITY IN STATISTICS EDUCATION IN UKRAINE

Ruslan Motoryn, Motoryna Tetiana

Ukrainian State University of Finance and International Trade
Taras Shevchenko National University of Kyiv
motoryn@i.ua

The system of statistics education in Ukraine has undergone noticeable changes as a result of economic reforms. These changes have had a profound impact on the curriculum in statistics and more intensive use of modern information technologies in educational process.

The aim of network is to promote the use of scientific researches, raise the level of staff competence, train statistical experts for the agencies and introduce innovative methods of statistical data production and dissemination.

This article focuses on factors of sustainability in statistics education in Ukraine. The work describes educational system of statistics in Ukraine, the use of scientific researches, raise the level of staff competence, train statistical experts for the agencies and introduce innovative methods of statistical data production and dissemination, the infrastructure of education, contain of the curricula of department of statistics of Kyiv National University of Economics.